Culinary Demonstration - Food Network Style

We have an unique spouse/guest program organized this year! You will enjoy a culinary demonstration in a private home! While it is not a Food Network Show such as Rachel Ray or Paula Deen, you will get a similar experience, just Ann Lund style.

You will board the mini coach at the east entrance of the Overland Park Marriott Hotel for a short ride to the home of Ann Lund, "master of the kitchen", where you will witness Ann's culinary class followed by a delightful luncheon which she has prepared before your eyes. Classes are demonstration and include the recipes for the class menu, preparation of the recipes. This meal will consist of the items demonstrated during the culinary instruction. You will enjoy an appetizer, salad, entrée, dessert, and beverages

Ann is the owner of Dining in Style Culinary Instruction. She has been teaching cooking classes since 1995 in her home and at the Kansas City Culinary Center. She has published four cookbooks. Her mission is to find cooking utensils and gadgets that make cooking easier and more enjoyable. She has a retail outlet that offers many of these items and you will have the opportunity to browse these unique kitchen gadgets! Bon Appetit!!

You will be back at the hotel around 2:00 p.m. so you can enjoy some leisure shopping on your own or just relax before the evening Welcome Night Gala Reception.

Friday, January 18, 2013

Friday is reserved FOR YOU to do whatever your little heart desires! You are welcomed to join us for all breakfast and meeting functions if you wish. Or you could always take advantage of the great many things to do in the area. There is endless shopping! If you need ideas of some unique shops or areas to visit, let me know and I can help you out.

I hope that you enjoy this year's program and as always, please feel free to contact me with your ideas, suggestions and/or questions at (785) 235-1188 or wharms@ink.org.
